

EDUCATION OPENS DOORS' PROGRAM SUMMARY

The Need

NATIONALLY, 95% OF MIDDLE SCHOOL AT-RISK STUDENTS ASPIRE TO ATTEND COLLEGE.

YET, ONLY 8% ATTAIN A BACHELOR'S DEGREE.

(source: Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation)

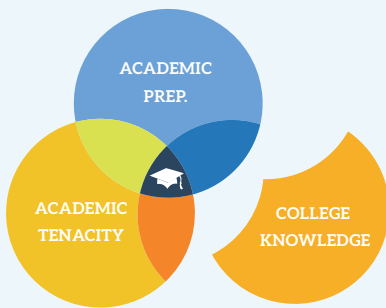

LOCALLY, DALLAS COUNTY HAS AN

85% GRADUATION RATE,

BUT ONLY 14% OF GRADUATES ARE DEEMED "COLLEGE READY".

(source: 2016 Commit! Partnership Dallas County Scorecard)

Student college readiness can be identified in 3 distinct, yet overlapping areas: Academic Preparedness, Academic Tenacity, and College Knowledge (source: Annenberg Institute for School Reform). Our schools and educators work hard to address the needs of Academic Preparedness and Tenacity, but College Knowledge tends to go untaught.

“If educators are to use college and career readiness as a strategy for accomplishing the goal of postsecondary education access and success, they must couple academic preparedness with the knowledge and skills students need to navigate the college-going process.” — The Future of Children

Our Solution

We prepare our students for postsecondary success by providing them with information that is not typically taught in formal academic settings. Our train-the-trainer program raises students' college and career expectations, confidence, and skills to navigate the college-going process. The Roadmap to Success Program consists of 2 complete year-long packages, providing educators with multifaceted program elements in a variety of classroom settings to actively increase student expectations, motivation, and college knowledge.

Creating a College-Going Culture

Since its inception, the Roadmap to Success Program has impacted over 23,000 students
